A great workplace doesn't happen by accident

Hybrid working, fragmented suppliers and changing employee expectations are making workplace planning more complex, with decisions across people, space, technology and services increasingly interdependent.

Treat the workplace as one connected environment

Bechtle brings together people, spaces, technology, print, documents and ongoing services, helping you coordinate decisions earlier, improve employee and meeting experiences, gain clearer visibility of performance and cost, and make better decisions as your needs change.

Disconnected decisions create avoidable friction

Workplace design, construction, furniture, audio visual technology, IT, print and document workflows are often managed separately. When decisions are made at different stages without considering the wider environment, the result can be duplicated effort, delays, additional cost and misaligned solutions.

Workplace experience has moved on

Poor workplace experiences, ineffective collaboration and technology friction can undermine productivity, employee experience and workplace value. Room layouts, lighting, power, furniture, infrastructure and technology all influence one another. Bringing specialists into a project too late can create constraints and expensive changes that earlier planning could have prevented.

Limited visibility makes it harder to improve

Once the workplace is in use, limited visibility can make it difficult to understand performance, usage and value. Uncontrolled documents, unclear information flows and connected devices can also create governance, cost and security risks.

Left unaddressed, these challenges can affect far more than the workplace itself. Employee experience, productivity, talent attraction and retention, operational effectiveness, security, investment value and your ability to adapt can all suffer.

How Bechtle supports you

Every workplace journey starts with understanding your goals, challenges and current environment. You might come to Bechtle with an office move, a meeting room refresh, a print contract approaching renewal or a need to understand how your existing space is performing.

We consider that immediate requirement alongside the people, spaces, technology and services that could influence its long term success, helping you make connected decisions in the right order.

1 Consult
Understand how your people work today, how the workplace is performing and what the business needs to achieve, including the priorities, constraints and opportunities that should shape the project.

2 Design
Bring workplace strategy, interiors, space planning, audio visual and collaboration technology, infrastructure, print and document workflows, services and intelligence into a joined up plan.

3 Implement
Coordinate the agreed workplace, technology and service changes, bringing the relevant specialists together around one delivery plan.

4 Support
Provide the operational support, training and managed services needed to keep your workplace running effectively after implementation.

5 Manage
Use insight, governance and ongoing optimisation to improve workplace performance, experience, utilisation and value over time.

Core capabilities

Whether you're planning a fit out, improving collaboration spaces or looking for better workplace insight, Bechtle brings Shell, Spaces and Services together around what you need. Start with one area or draw on the wider capability as your workplace evolves.

1 Shell

Create the right foundations

Shell brings together workplace strategy, consultancy, space planning, specialist design, interiors and fit out, infrastructure planning, compliance and programme coordination. By involving the right specialists and making decisions in the right order, you can reduce risk and avoid costly compromises during an office move, refurbishment or expansion.

2 Space

Design around how people actually work

Spaces covers the environments where people focus, collaborate, learn and connect, from a single room to an entire workplace. Bechtle considers room design, acoustics, furniture, audio visual technology, collaboration tools and usability together, helping you create intuitive environments that strengthen collaboration and employee experience.

3 Service

Keep the workplace performing

Services brings together workplace intelligence, print and document workflows, managed services and ongoing optimisation. Better visibility, governance and operational control can reduce the burden on internal teams and help you get more value from your workplace investment over time.

Intelligence across the workplace

Vision Dashboards provides an intelligence layer across Shell, Spaces and Services, giving you clearer insight into how spaces, technology, workplace services and building environments are performing.

By combining utilisation, performance and environmental insight, you can identify friction, assess whether investments are delivering value and prioritise improvements using evidence rather than assumption.

Why Bechtle?

One connected workplace partner

Bechtle brings together specialist expertise across workplace strategy and design, interiors and fit out, audio visual and collaboration technology, print and document workflows, workplace intelligence, managed services and wider IT. You get a coordinated route through the project rather than separate conversations between disconnected suppliers.

Physical and digital, designed together

Workplace design and technology are considered together from the outset. Our vendor agnostic approach means different technologies, manufacturers and service models can be assessed against your requirements rather than shaping the project around a predetermined product.

Flexible at any scale

You can engage Bechtle for a single room, service or workplace challenge, or across a complete transformation. For international programmes, Bechtle's European presence and Global IT Alliance partner network can support more consistent standards, delivery and user experience across multiple countries.

What a connected workplace looks like in practice

CASE STUDY 1

Global Aviation Organisation:
Simplifying a fragmented global print environment

Challenge

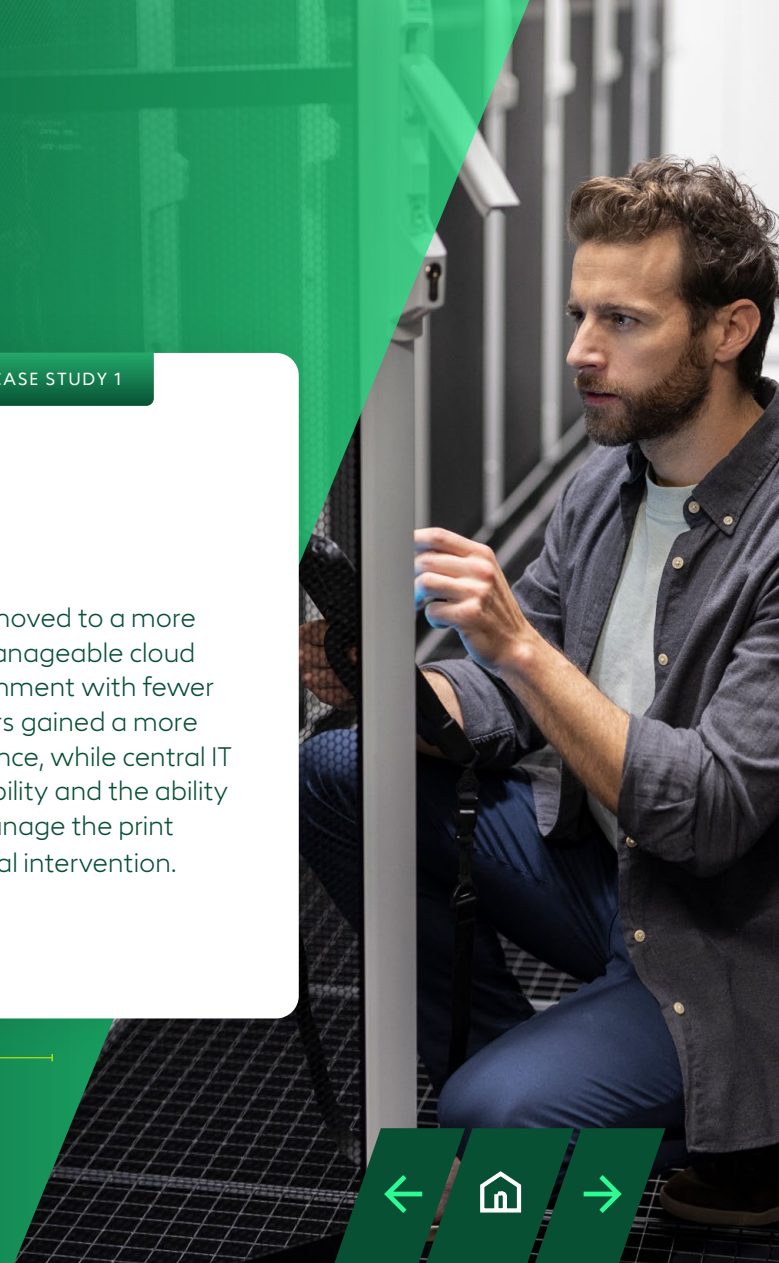

A global aviation organisation needed to simplify a fragmented print environment across its international offices. The goal was to establish one provider, one cloud secure print platform and one central management approach, creating greater consistency and control across locations.

Bechtle approach

Bechtle assessed the requirement and selected the appropriate hardware, software and service model. The rollout was coordinated through Bechtle UK and Ireland, giving the customer one contracted entity and a single point of account management while supporting deployment across Europe, the Far East and the Americas.

Outcome

The organisation moved to a more centralised and manageable cloud based print environment with fewer moving parts. Users gained a more consistent experience, while central IT gained clearer visibility and the ability to monitor and manage the print estate with minimal intervention.

CASE STUDY 2

Bechtle London: Creating a workplace designed for growth, collaboration and customer engagement

Challenge

Following significant business growth and the successful integration of Tangible Benefit into Bechtle, the London team had outgrown its existing office. The objective was to create a larger, future-ready workplace that could support expansion, strengthen collaboration, improve customer and partner engagement, and reflect Bechtle's continued investment in the UK market.

Bechtle approach

Bechtle's Modern Workplace specialists delivered a complete fit-out at Angel Square, combining workplace strategy, space planning, interior design and audio visual technology. Spaces for collaboration, meetings, customer engagement, innovation and focused work were designed alongside integrated meeting room technology, creating a functional, flexible workplace that supports future growth.

Outcome

The new workplace more than doubled office capacity, creating a flexible environment aligned with Bechtle's culture and ambitions. It supports employee collaboration while showcasing Bechtle's expertise to customers and partners, helping the business grow, strengthen relationships and attract and retain talent.

Where to start

Planning an office move or refurbishment?

Bring workplace strategy, space planning, interiors, infrastructure and technology decisions together earlier so the environment can be designed around how your people need to work.

Improving meeting and collaboration spaces?

Review room layouts, furniture, acoustics and technology together, whether you are refreshing one room or rethinking collaboration across a wider workplace.

Reviewing print or document processes?

Assess devices, usage, cost, workflows, governance and security, then shape a simpler model with clearer control and fewer moving parts.

Looking for greater workplace insight?

Use utilisation, performance and environmental data to understand how spaces are working, identify friction and prioritise improvements.

Modern Workplace Discovery Workshop

Understand where you are today, where you want to be and the best route forward. The workshop looks across Shell, Spaces and Services to identify priorities and build a roadmap around business outcomes, employee experience and ROI.

RoomSense

RoomSense combines workplace observations, utilisation data, employee feedback and environmental assessment to understand how your spaces are performing, identify friction and prioritise improvements.

Fleet Management Tool

Gain auditability and full asset visibility across your print environment, with central reporting on devices, performance, volumes, consumables and errors, plus remote management.

One challenge rarely sits in one place

You do not need to transform the whole workplace to get started. Begin with the requirement in front of you and Bechtle can connect it to the wider environment, identify the decisions that need to be made and establish the most appropriate next step.
